Brand Story

Where a designer's imagination becomes reality

'Cafe Yul-Yun-Yung' is a creative shared-office cafe. Moving beyond a conventional F&B venue, it operates as a design-focused co-working brand where artists and designers can comfortably settle in, exchange ideas, and collaborate.

Rather than just consuming a beverage, visitors are invited to fully experience the sensory space itself. We aim to be an imaginative sanctuary for creators to gather, spark inspiration, and connect.

Design

Inspired by the traditional Korean colors, Obangsaek and Ogansaek, this project visualizes the value of collaboration, showcasing how artists from diverse fields come together to create harmony, much like different hues blending as one.

By intersecting geometric curves (symbolizing flexible thinking and connectivity) with polygonal straight lines (representing spatial structure and expertise), I infused a sensory visual identity throughout the brand and the physical space.

Your Financial Anchor Abroad: The Exchange Rate Relief Card

ISFXC is a government-supported financial solution dedicated to international students facing academic and financial volatility due to daily currency fluctuations.

We mitigate unpredictable foreign exchange risks so that students can dedicate themselves fully to their future and education. Backed by the solid stability of public finance,
ISFXC provides a powerful launching pad for young visionaries expanding their horizons globally.

Let your grades soar, not the rates.
Fixed exchange, infinite dreams.

Design Concept

The ISFXC card is a groundbreaking, government-backed financial service that freezes the exchange rate from the exact moment an international student first sets foot in a foreign country, locking it in for four years until graduation.

Intentionally halting the volatile gears of the foreign exchange market for the sake of the student, the design goes beyond mere emotional comfort. It visualizes the absolute trust and authority of a national financial system that perfectly anchors and controls currency fluctuations.

A sense of stability and trust in modern infrastructure

The identity of the service as an exclusive foreign exchange relief card for international students is intuitively stated through a dot-matrix typeface, evoking the precision of financial infrastructure.

Brand Identity

Fluid Forms, Shifting Silhouettes

This campaign is a Brand Experience (BX) project that translates the core narrative of the artist book peer.iboo—'the migrating human, and the process where movement itself becomes identity'—into the mutable and structural silhouettes of the fashion label Y/ Project.

Refusing to define a fixed form of clothing for the modern nomad who belongs to no single nationality or fixed border, the project proposes silhouettes that flow fluidly with the movement of the body. Through the mutability of structure, it visualizes both the anxiety and the freedom experienced by those who stand on the boundaries.

Along the road...
To a place where no one knows it...
When Boksili arrived,
it discovered a smaller village there.
A fairy tale character appeared!!!
Boksili was shocked.
In the story Boksili had read, Peeriboo came once every six years and took the village children away.
But Boksili couldn't understand why six years was such a long time.
To Boksili, the Peeriboo was like a fleeting comet.
There was a light inside the people—a light Boksili didn't have and didn't want.
It was a light that made Boksili feel small and uncomfortable.
After six long years, Peeriboo returned.
Without a hesitation, Boksili followed Peeriboo
It had been waiting for this moment.
As Boksili grew older,
it began to vaguely understand
I am a Peeriboo,
and my destination is wherever my steps take me.

Once upon a time, in a small village,
there was Boksili, who didn't like itself at all.
Actually, it didn't like how others saw it.
